

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair's tactics smack of purely partisan politics. 30 years after the fact they seek to hide their actual intentions about running this smear campaign as a news program. This just shows once again how the spineless FCC has become a toady to the interests of the few rich owners of big media. Whatever became of the fact that the airwaves are owned by the public and are only leased to media outlets?
